THE BELLE OF BOYD FARM; OR
The Buccaneers of Bull Run.

A TALE OF BLOOD, THUNDER AND SOME TRUTH
BY MRS. ALICE ELIZABETH M FINNEGAN

CHAPTER VII

The scene of our story is shifted—from the vicinity of Boyd Farm to Titusville. This change is made for various reasons. After Bill's marriage he wanted to leave the vicinity of his former operations and reform if possible from his evil ways. Another cause for his moving was the Sheriff sold him out once or twice and instead of spending his evenings with his family his time was mostly spent in the jail at Franklin. Such close confinement to business did not agree with his health, and he proposed to leave for some more secure place where he could turn an honest penny (into a dishonest one.)

Two years have passed since the wedding in chapter sixth, and many sad changes have been wrought by old time and the sheriff.

Old Puffenguntz committed suicide by swallowing one of 'Robert's torpedoes,' and all that was ever found of his remains was a grease spot. After the old man's death and owing to the prohibitory law against selling liquors without license, Mrs. Puffenguntz pined away, and finally, pegged out, during an attack of potato bug on the heart.

They were both buried in one grave and a revenue stamp put on the head board by 'Bill' and this was the only act of respect ever shown them.

CHAPTER VIII

Whiskey's been the ruin of me!
JENKINS'S MAUD

This scene is laid in Bill's best parlor, in his house located near the suburbs of Titusville.

William sits reclining in an easy chair near the bay window, which commands a view of the toll gate in all its pristine beauty. The setting sun is shining through the half drawn curtains and its rays falling upon Bill's nose, transform it into a glowing carbuncle flashing with scarlet and gold. He is engaged in embroidering a pair of stockings as a Christmas present for himself.

Susan is out in the woodshed, amusing herself by such light tasks as sawing wood and blacking stoves. From the delicate blush which suffuses William's face as he hears his little wife hard at work, it is evident that their honey moon has not past and we might say with truth not common sense yet. Pickles, up a horse whip that hangs in the corner, Bill steps to the door and playfully cracks his wife over the head with it saying, as he does so, in tender accents:

'Come here, Susie, I would have a few words with you.'

'Certainly my dear,' says Susan, who accompanies her speech by a stick of wood which strikes Bill in the bread basket, and floors him.—Bill jumps up, and after sportively kicking her around the room several times, takes her by the ear and leads her to a seat, and remarks:

'To day is the second anniversary of our wedding, Susan.'

'Is it possible, William? How time flies when we are with those we love.'

'Yes, and my little wife has to fly occasionally when her 'hubby' gets after her with a club, doesn't she, Susie?'

'Oh, yes, my noble husband, but I am so used to it I should feel sick all day if you should neglect to give me my accustomed horsewhipping before breakfast.'

'Never fear my pet you shall never grow ill from want of that medicine,' joyously says Bill.

'But you forget, William, to-morrow is our wedding anniversary instead of to day!'

'What, Dare you dispute me? Come here you miserable individual!'

'No, my dear buccaneer I will prove I am right. You have rawhided me three times a day ever since our marriage, haven't you?'

'Yes,' replied William, 'it was your father's last request before he died (his hair)'

'Well, my liege, I have kept account of all the wallopings you ever gave me, in chalk, on the cellar door,' and throwing the door open, there were seen seven hundred and twenty seven chalk marks for the days she had received 'licklings,' lacking just one day of being two years of three hundred and sixty five days each.

'You are right, my noble, forgiving wife,' exclaimed Bill, 'Come to my arms, I'll forgive you.'

While they were thus billing and cooing like an affectionate couple, as they were, there was heard a rap at the door. William arose to answer it.

'Who's there?' said he.

The Sheriff from Franklin came back. 'What do you want of me at this time of day?' said William. 'We are after you,' replied the Sheriff; 'there's no use in making any resistance, there are fourteen Sheriffs and deputies around the house and more on the way from Meadville and Pithole, so surrender or I'll blow your dog's brains out if I can find him.'

'Why am I thus surrounded?' said William.

'I have several indictments against you, one is for buccaneering, another for getting drunk without a license, and another for not putting a stamp on your common bills at the late navigation at Bull Run. But there is one charge yet which I hesitate to reveal in the presence of your wife.'

'Spit it out,' yelled Bill.

'Selling liquor without a marriage license.'

Here Susan turned a somersault over backwards and fainted.

'You've killed her; the only woman I ever loved well enough to have whipped, now do your worst,' exclaimed the terrified Bill.

The Sheriffs now numbering twenty three entered and after buckling and gagging William they started for Franklin, leaving Susan on the floor stiff as a poker.

A Plea for Mean Men.

A correspondent of the Missouri Republican undertakes the defence of mean men, as close calculators are sometimes called. He makes out a pretty good case, closing as follows:

Who makes the better husband? At the risk of bringing down a torrent of maledictions on my unprotected head I shall still adhere to the man who is supposed to have no heart or genuine human sentiment. The good fellow for a lover the mean man for a husband. The latter will rob his creation to supply his household, the former will rob his family to accomodate his friends. Form all the married women in St. Louis in a solid column up and down Fourth street, and if I don't get ninety nine votes out of one hundred in favor of my proposition I will rent the drinking community to a barrel of gin and water on the occasion of the first election for a female President. Good fellow, all love, mean man, all business. One takes his wife to the opera in a four horse carriage, the other rides triumphantly in a street omnibus. The good fellow never can be cross to anybody but his wife, for fear of making himself unpopular, the mean man is so now with all the rest of the world that he has not one particle of ill temper to spare at home.

"Love raises the cottage, the court the grove,
For love is heaven and heaven is love."

but it won't buy beef. Mean men seldom get 'cantankerous,' he is too mean. His wife is never jealous. She knows all women hate him, because he is mean, and she rather likes it. She laughs and grows fat. Good fellow drinks; too kind-hearted to refuse, and he loves everybody. Good fellow's wife pale and emaciated, decrepit with age and full of sorrow, mean man's wife hale and hearty; fat, red-faced, and weighs a ton. Am I right?

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Opinions of the Press.

From the New York Times

There is neither vagueness in its statements, nor weakness in its phrases. But its temper savors far too much of arrogance.—Its spirit is far too bitter and hostile—its prevading tone is too decidedly one of stern rebuke and denunciation, to permit the hope that it will contribute anything to the pacification of the country, and the restoration of the peace and concord of which all the States and sections stand so much in need.

The Constitution provides that the President shall, from time to time, give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient." This is his authority and his only authority, for sending messages to Congress at all. In this Message we get very little "information" as to the state of the Union. Two thirds of the whole document is devoted to a strong, argumentative, vehement denunciation of the past action of Congress, and the only "measure" which is recommended in this connection is the prompt repeal of the laws in which this action is embodied. The usage of some of his predecessors may be held to vindicate the President's right to send such a document, almost as dictatorial in its form as it is arrogant in its temper, into Congress, in place of the "information" for which the Constitution intended to provide. But in the present state of the public mind under the existing emergencies of the nation, and in view of the passions engendered by the past conflicts between the two departments of the Government, no reflecting man can fail to see that such an exercise of that right is in itself a flagrant and a perilous wrong.

From the New York Herald

The President's message is mainly devoted to a reproduction, in extenso of his peculiar views on Southern reconstruction. His argument in reference to the status and constitutional rights of the rebel States is that of an earnest and well satisfied advocate. But he forgets that in 1865 he officially pronounced those States without legal governments or civil officers, and proceeded to set them up with Provisional Governors, reconstruction conventions and constitutions, subject to the decision of Congress.

From the New York Tribune

At the moment when all the patriots are hoping for a cessation of political and quasi sectional strife already too long persisted in and a restoration of calmness and fraternity, Mr. Johnson hurls a fresh fire brand into the face of the country. He summons into new activity and acrimony all the feuds and hates which good men had hoped were quieted and challenges a renewal of the mischievous perilous strife already protracted beyond reason and for which there is no longer a shadow or excuse. So untimely, so wantonly wicked, so baleful an appeal to outworn prejudices and dying factions has not been made in all our past history.

Mr. Johnson has much to say of the Constitution and of negroes, in apparent ignorance that the federal Constitution utterly disregards political or other distinctions founded on color. It recognizes some men as citizens, others as aliens and still others as Indians not taxed, it discriminates 'five persons from all other persons,' but it knows no man as black or white. Concerning negroes the Constitution is silent. We turn therefore the President's batteries on himself. He makes a grossly unconstitutional invidious, unjust distinction between citizens which the Constitution and laws make none—makes it for the express purpose of putting four millions of loyal Americans under the feet of unchanged rebels.

From the Utica Herald

This is Mr. Johnson's programme of national politics. Agitate for the repeal of reconstruction acts, and thus re open the whole question. Stir up prejudice against the wards of the Republic, and let loose against the prejudice and madness against four millions of our people, helpless and defenseless. And beyond all this, precludes the probable need of a new civil war the standard of which he already defiantly flaunts. An official who can talk after this manner, treads upon the verge of gigantic offenses. His attitude should consolidate the patriots who have carried the country through the great struggle. It should bring shoulder to shoulder all who desire peace, to say nothing of justice. The country has not believed that Mr. Johnson contemplated violence. Now he deliberately discusses what he may enjoy if the threat should not be met by passion on the part of Congress. Prudence and firmness and courage, sturdy adherence to principles already embodied in legislation, a determination to maintain peace through all the grand results of the land will command popular approval. No party will sustain will analogous for such threats in a public document, will they? At all events, the attempt to carry them out will arouse the land as the fall of Sumpter did not. The individual who shall set up his will to resist by violence laws passed with constitutional formalities, and shall seek to stir up another civil war, will call upon his head a weight of opinion which words cannot express and will be considered to punishment by the executions of an indignant people. The threat indicates the political cognizery to which Mr. Johnson is reduced.

The madness of Mr. Johnson must unite once more the loyal people, and rouse them to save the country from his machinations. Fortunately, the Fortieth Congress will watch and curb him.

A clergyman recently sent to a Selma (Ala.) newspaper a notice that he would preach a discourse on "Selma's Expense Account for Sin." By a compositor's blunder "tin" was changed into "tin," and the announcement of that metal as the subject of a religious discourse excited much interest and curiosity that when Sunday evening came the church was crammed, and hundreds were turned away who could not find standing room inside.

The American Cooking Stove.
This stove has again been awarded two first premiums at our State Fair at Erie, one for cooking and one for wood. We are now enabled to announce the unparalleled result of this stove having taken the first premium at the New York State Fair for the last six consecutive years, notwithstanding it has been brought in competition with all the best stoves made in the State, and many from other States, and notwithstanding the persistent combination of rival editors of the competitors to defeat it. The Premium in Erie is not alone confined to this State. On the 19th of September it was awarded the first premium at the New Jersey State Fair, and also the world's fair first premium at the Pennsylvania State Fair, and has never been exhibited at a State Fair and failed to take the first premium and the premium at county fairs are too numerous to mention. The testimonials are still endorsed by the people throughout the country. We keep a supply of the different kinds always on hand ready for delivery.

WASHINGTON.

Political.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.

John B Haskin, of New York, John Heckman, of Pennsylvania, and John F. Reynolds, all prominent Democrats, have recently arrived in Washington. Haskin has been sounding President Johnson on the Presidential question and the meeting at Mr Black's last night was for the purpose of comparing notes on a candidate. The chances of Johnson, Seymour, Pendleton, and others were severally discussed, but none of them were accepted. A new man was agreed upon. Messrs. Haskin, Reynolds and others, who had just been with the President, stated that Mr. Johnson told them that General Hancock was doing admirably and has only begun the programe that has been laid out by him some two months ago They allow it to be understood that Gen Hancock was Johnson's choice and the only man that could make a show against Grant, consequently the clique of politicians at the meeting to-night privately nominated General Hancock for the next President and pledged themselves to his support. No one could be agreed upon for Vice President Haskin and Hoffman were spoken of, but Hancock being a Pennsylvanian, the West, it is suggested, would claim the Vice President Haskin was promised the next Gubernatorial nomination in New York. Should Hoffman be the candidate for Vice President, and either Sanford E. Chure Horatio Seymour, or Samuel Tilden is to succeed Gov Morgan in the Senate.

General Hancock.

A prominent gentleman called to day on General Rawlins, Chief of Grant's Staff, to learn whether the recent order of General Hancock, revoking General Mower's appointments, met with General Grant's approval, and to elicit any information on the subject in possession of the Department. General Rawlins stated that when General Hancock took command he received special instructions from General Grant in regard to military matters in Louisiana, but whether they covered General Hancock's recent action or not he could not tell. He presumed the facts would be developed in a few days, as the subject had been brought promptly before the acting Secretary of War and the President by persons who opposed General Hancock's administration.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS

House.

WASHINGTON, Dec 7

The Speaker presented a communication from the Secretary of War in reference to the case of Mr. Milliken, and stating that General Thomas' report on the subject is in the hands of the Attorney General Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The Speaker stated the next business in order to be the resolution for the impeachment of the President

Pending the question, Mr Wilson, of Iowa, moved to lay the subject on the table

After considerable filibustering Mr Logan said if the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee would withdraw his motion and allow a vote to be taken squarely on the impeachment question, the minority would withdraw all opposition

Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, assented to the proposition and withdrew his motion to lay it on the table, and moved the previous question on the resolution, which was seconded and the main question ordered.

The House proceeded to vote by yeas and nays on the following resolution.

Resolved, That Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, be impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors Yeas, 57, nays, 108

Mr Schenck, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported back a bill declaring that on and after its passage the authority of the Secretary to make any reduction in the currency by retraction or cancelling United States notes is suspended.

A running discussion, in which the impeachment question got mixed up, ensued between Messrs. Schenck, Ingersoll, Stevens, of Pa, Logan, Garfield and others, but Mr Schenck put an end to it by moving the previous question on the bill. The previous question was seconded and the bill passed—yeas, 127; nays, 25

Mr Schenck moved that a thousand copies of the loan laws of the United States be printed, the pamphlet to be prepared under the direction of the Committee on Ways and Means Referred to the Committee on Printing.

Mr. Schenck moved that the House go into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union.

Mr Stevens, of Pa, offered a resolution for distributing the President's message among the various committees to which its subject applied. Among them was a proposition to refer a portion to the Committee on Reconstruction

Mr. Rose moved to strike out a part of the resolution.

Mr. Stevens asked for a vote

Mr Rose's motion was rejected

Mr. Butler offered an additional resolution which referred to the Committee on Appropriations that part of the message relating to the purchase of the Russian possessions in America.

Mr. Stevens thought that without special reference the subject was with the Committee on Foreign Affairs, and he saw no reason to change

Mr. Butler's amendment was rejected and the other resolutions were laid aside to be reported to the House

Mr. Payne replied to the argument of Mr. Butler, made last week, against the payment of the principal of the 5-20's in gold

The Committee rose and the House adjourned.

NEW YORK.

Greeley.

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.

The Tribune to-day says: Mr. Greeley has neither publicly nor privately presumed to censure or distrust the Alabama Convention. He has written to several of his Southern friends urging that the constitutions now being framed for their respective States to be made broadly and generously Republican. He may have written to Senator Wilson suggesting action in accordance with his well-known and often repeated programme of reconstruction, but he has never assumed that the Alabama or any other convention need to be restrained, nor complained that it was bringing odium on the Republican party.

The Lincoln Monument.

The design by H K Browne has been accepted for the Lincoln monument in Union Square It is a perfectly simple, all length statue of Mr. Lincoln, of colossal size, and to be supported by a base twenty feet in length The statue will be cast in bronze and the base will contain several embellishments and historical designs illustrating Mr. Lincoln's career. Enough money is already subscribed to pay Browne for the statue, twenty thousand dollars, but enough more will be needed to complete the monument. The work on the statue will begin at once.

Steamer Bosphorus Foundered

English mail advices of the 26th ult. state forty-eight lives were lost on the steamer Bosphorus, which foundered in the Indian Ocean.

Dr Livingstone.

All the particulars known about the safety of Dr. Livingstone were that a trader arrived at Zanzibar and reported a white man, accompanied by thirty blacks carrying doubled barreled guns The white man said he was not a trader and declined sale and gifts from the chiefs At Zanzibar the trader did not recognize a portrait of Dr. Livingstone, but picked out a caricature sketch from many portraits and said, "That's the man"

Education in England and Wales

Earl Russell was to move in the House of Lords, Dec 2, a resolution to effect the education of the working classes of England and Wales, which ought to be improved; that every child has the right to the blessings of education, and it is the duty of the State to guard and maintain that right; that the illusion of knowledge ought not to be hindered by religious difference; that Parliament and the Government should provide for the better administration of charitable endowments and a minister of education, with a seat in the Cabinet, would conduce to the public benefit

SAN FRANCISCO

Important Discovery.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec 6.

Honolulu dates of Nov 14th have been received. The Honolulu Advertiser published an account of the discovery of land, hitherto unknown in the Artic Ocean, by Capt Long of the whale ship Nile. It is thought this territory will prove to be the polar continent so long sought after—The past season has been the mildest experienced by the oldest whalemen, and Capt. Long was able to reach latitude 3 deg. 30 min. He examined the land attentively along its extreme southern coast which he sketched. It appears to be quite elevated and has a mountain near the centre, about longitude 180, resembling an extinct volcano and estimated to be about 3,000 feet high. Capt Long named the country Wrangell's land, after a Russian explorer The western point of the coast in latitude 70 deg 46 min, north longitude 78 deg 30 min east. He named Cape Thomas, after the seamen who discovered it The southeast he called Cape Harbor. The Nile sailed several days along the coast and approached within fifteen miles of the shore. The lower part of the land was free from snow and appeared to be covered with vegetation, but it was impossible to tell how far the land extended northward Ranges of mountains could be seen until they were lost in the distance.

HAVANA.

The Earthquake at St. Thomas

HAVANA, Dec. 6.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic.—This medicine invented by Dr. Schenck, of Philadelphia, is intended to dissolve the food and make it into chyme, the first process of digestion. By cleansing the stomach with Schenck's Mandrake Pills, the Tonic soon restores the appetite, and food that could not be eaten before, now it will be easily digested.

Consumption cannot be cured by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup unless the stomach and liver is made healthy and the appetite restored, hence the Tonic and Pills are required in nearly every case of consumption. A half dozen bottles of Seaweed Tonic and three or four boxes of the Mandrake Pills will cure any ordinary case of dyspepsia.

Dr. Schenck makes professional visits to New York Boston, and at his principal Office in Philadelphia every week. See daily papers of each place, or his pamphlet on consumption for his days of visitation.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor, one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health, are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, price $1 50 per bottle, or $1 50 the half dozen. All letters for advice should be addressed to Dr Schenck's Principal Office, No. 15, North 6th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

525 MILES

OF THE

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

Running West from Omaha Across the Continent, are now completed. This brings the line to the eastern base of the Rocky Mountains, and it is expected that the track will be laid thirty miles farther, to Evans Pass, the highest point on the road, by January. The maximum grade from the foot of the mountains to the summit is but eighty feet to the mile, while that of many eastern roads is over one hundred. Work in the rock cuttings on the western slope will continue through the winter, and there is now no reason to doubt that the entire grand line to the Pacific will be open for business in 1870.

The means provided for the construction of this Great National Work are ample. The United States grants its Six Per Cent. Bonds at the rate of from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile, for which it takes a second lien as security, and receives payment in a large if not to the full extent of its claim in services These Bonds are issued as each twenty mile section is finished, and after it has been examined by United States Commissioners and pronounced to be in all respects a first class road, thoroughly supplied with depots, repair shops, stations, and all the necessary rolling stock and other equipments.

The United States also makes a donation of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, which will be a source of large revenue to the Company. Much of this land in the Platte Valley is among the most fertile in the world and other large portions are covered with heavy pine forests and abound in coal of the best quality

The Company is also authorized to issue its own First Mortgage Bonds to an amount equal to the issue of the Government and no more. Hon. E. D. Morgan and Hon. Oakes Ames are Trustees for the Bondholders, and deliver the Bonds to the Company only as the work progresses, so that they always represent an actual and productive value

The authorized capital of the Company is One Hundred Million Dollars, of which over five millions have been paid in upon the work already done.

Earnings of the Company.

At present, the profits of the Company are derived only from its local traffic, but this is already much more than sufficient to pay the interest on all the Bonds the Company can issue, if not another mile were built. It is not doubted that when the road is completed the through traffic of the only line connecting the Atlantic and Pacific States will be large beyond precedent, and, as there will be no competition, it can always be done at profitable rates.

It will be noticed that the Union Pacific Railroad is, in fact, a Government Work, built under the supervision of Government officers, and to a large extent with Government money and that its bonds are issued under Government direction. It is believed that no similar security is so carefully guarded, and certainly no other is based upon a larger or more valuable property. As the Company's are offered for the present at 90 Cents on the Dollar, they are the cheapest security in the market, being more than 16 per cent. lower than U. S. Stocks. They pay

The Grant Meeting in New York.

It is idle to talk to the Republican party about nominating Grant in the National Convention, unless he will stand on a Republican platform. By that, we do not include of course, the different hobbies which have been mixed up, in different States, with purely Republican principles, but we intend simply a general concurrence and endorsement of the Congressional policy of Reconstruction. Farther, it will be alike politic and fair for that platform to take a well defined position in regard to the financial question at issue.

The country has every reason to believe that Grant is in accord with the great body of the Republican party, in both on these questions. They judge him by his acts, his declarations. In this conviction, Republicans have got up Grant clubs all over the country, and the press has very numerously in every State, hoisted his name as a candidate for the Presidential nomination by their party.

The other night there was a great Grant meeting in New York city, but it had two voices, like Orator Puff. The speeches made by Sickles and Tremaine had the true Republican ring, especially the former's, but the resolutions were a string of "glittering generalities," without purpose or decision, and might just as well have emanated from a Democratic as from a Republican meeting. Ignoring every issue, and laboredly disingenuous, they are calculated to excite a widespread distrust of the Grant movement as engineered by New York politicians. The studied silence of the resolutions on the subject of Reconstruction, in any of its lights and bearings, plainly indicates that the meeting was by no means under reliable and trustworthy Republican auspices. But General Grant is nothound by it, and well he may exclaim, "Save me from my friends," if he is to fall into the hands of men totally insensible, if not indifferent to the magnitude and responsibilities of our national crisis. On this point the New York Tribune says:

We purpose not to hold Gen. Grant in anywise responsible for the utterance or the positions of those who choose to nominate or to support him. We assume that he will speak for himself, at what he shall deem the proper time, with the frankness of a soldier and the earnestness of a patriot. If he is on the right side—the side of Humanity, of Progress, of Equal Rights and Equal Laws—he will no declare himself, and will thereupon be renounced by some of the noblest and most vehement of his present supporters. If he shall see fit to fulfill the expectations of such supporters as Montgomery Blair and Gen Tom Ewing, jr., he will render it impossible for sincere Republicans to support him. It is idle to hope that the gravest and most imminent questions of the hour may be blinked, and a candidate for President found, who will satisfy the requirements and secure the votes at once, of those who hold that all men were created equal, and of those who, on the contrary, hold that Blacks have no rights which Whites are bound to respect. The silent multitude, who do not figure as officers at political meetings, but whose votes count heavily in an official canvass, will be sure that they are not betraying principle, in subservience to an office-hunting expediency, before they deposit their ballots.

It gives us pleasure to turn to the speech of General Sickles, and to commend the views and sentiments, which we would fain believe would have met with equal applause had they been embodied in the resolutions of the meeting as when they fell from the lips of the speaker. We quote from the report of his speech:

"I trust you will allow me to affirm as my opinion, my belief and my hope, that that noble act of justice by which the Congress of the United States gave the right of suffrage to all the people who are citizens of this land, who were loyal to the flag throughout the war in the rebel States, will be held by the American people as sacred and as irreversible as the Proclamation of Emancipation. (Great applause.) The American people are progressive, not reactionary. You cannot make a freeman to-day and make him a slave to-morrow. [Applause.] You cannot give a free man the badge of manhood—the ballot—to-day, and take it away to-morrow and make him the slave of another man who holds the ballot. Never, never can you, without outraging justice, and without planting within your borders an inextinguishable fire of resistance and revolt—never can you take away the ballot from the black man and give it to a Rebel. [Great applause, and three cheers.] But when the Rebel States come to Congress with a Constitution republican in form, providing fairly and equitably for the protection of the rights, civil and political, of all within their borders entitled to franchise, then, I say, you have attained at once that security for the present and the future which will enable Congress and the country to agree with one accord to grant general amnesty to all who have offended against our flag. [Loud applause.] From that general amnesty, I, for one, would only except those whose signal crimes against the Constitution and the laws of the land, against the laws of war and the common sense of humanity, have marked them out as fit examples for human justice. [Applause.] And those I would except. This can and I believe should be done. And this I think, is the belief of our illustrious chief, Gen. Grant. Fellow-citizens, I must thank you for your courtesy, and apologise for detaining you so long.

THE TRINITY ESTATE.—The impression that the Trinity Church estate in New York belonged to everybody but the parties in possession, has been pretty well disposed of by the corporation counsel of the city of New York, Richard O'Gorman, a gentleman whose eminent legal ability gives weight and character to his decision, and will carry conviction to all rational persons. The city of New York was supposed to have some claim against a portion of the Trinity property, and an investigation into the title has been made with unprofitable results. Trinity has held the property since the year 1705, and all adverse claims are consequently barred by the statute of limitations. This appears to cover the whole ground, not only of the city claims, but of the heirs of Annake Jans. The heirs met the other day at Poughkepsie and once more resolved to press their claims, and the lawyers are likely to reap another harvest.

IN the New York Constitutional Convention a majority report of the committee on official corruption was presented on Monday last by Mr. Opdyke, of New York. It provides that any official accepting a bribe shall be imprisoned not less than three years—pardons in such cases being prohibited. A person offering a bribe is exempted from all legal penalties, providing the bribe is accepted; otherwise he is to receive the same punishment as persons accepting a bribe. It is also provided that a person receiving or offering a bribe may be compelled to testify against himself. The report was accompanied by a long statement from the Committee, explaining and justifying its provisions, and giving testimony received by the Committee in their investigation of some of the charges of official corruption.

THE OIL BUSINESS.

Production—Development—Amount in the Oil Region—The Price—Shipments—Stocks—Iron Tankage, etc., etc.

(For the month ending December 7, 1867.)

THE BUSINESS.

But few people have any conception of the magnitude of the oil business, of the vast proportions which it has assumed, of the millions of dollars which are annually required to carry it on, or of the thousands who are engaged in its various branches. It has grown year by year and the methods of producing, refining and transporting have been brought to a system.—From a little used article of medicinal properties, almost unknown to commerce, Petroleum, or rock oil, has become in seven years one of the principal articles of export from the United States. The revenue which the Government derives from a tax of twenty cents per gallon on refined oil is enormous. At Pittsburgh there are no less than twenty millions of dollars invested in refineries and their appurtenances. At Cleveland there is a like amount invested in the same branch of the business. In New York and Philadelphia there are more than thirty millions of dollars invested in a like manner. In the oil region there is a large amount of capital invested in producing, refining, and in crude oil and iron tankage. The rolling stock on the different railroads which is used in transportation is worth no less than a million of dollars.

At present the oil business is undergoing a depression, consequent upon the large speculative transactions of last summer and fall. The exporters will suffer most from this depression, but, as a class, they are able to withstand large losses, and it is probable that there will be but few failures, and confidence will soon be restored throughout the business. As yet the depression has had but little effect on the business of the oil region.

THE PRODUCTION.

During the past month there has been a large increase in the production in several districts, but in others there has been considerable falling off, so that the actual increase has been light when the amount of development is taken into consideration. The increase is five hundred barrels and the average daily production in the entire region is now fully ten thousand four hundred barrels per day. There has been an increase on the Economite tract at Tidioute, on Shaffer Run near Reno, on the Woods and Foster Farms, and on Upper and Lower Cherry and Church Runs. There has also been a light increase on the W. McClintock Farm along the Allegheny River below Franklin, and on several farms in the Bull Run district. The decrease in proportion to the development has been greatest on the McElhenny, Benninghoff and Tarr Farms, on Oil Creek. The cause of this decrease has been that the oil bearing sand rock underlying a portion of the above Farms has become "watered" and the oil has been forced from the vicinity of the wells.

On the east side of the Allegheny River at Tidioute "watering" of the third sand rock continues and the best producing wells are those situated the farthest east of the river. The largest producing well in the region is that on Shaffer Run near Reno. There are nearly fifteen wells producing daily from one hundred to two hundred barrels and the majority of the wells now operated produce less than fifty barrels per day. The length of time which a well may produce depends in a great measure on the territory on which it is located. There is but little prospect for any large increase in the production during the next three months. The development is falling off and the cold weather will materially retard operations on wells which are about completed.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE TERRITORY.

There has been a decrease in the number of wells being drilled in the oil region within the past month. Several causes have led to this decrease, the most prominent of which are the low price of oil and the approach of winter. During the early part of last month new wells were started about as fast as others were completed, and for the first fifteen days the number of wells being drilled remained about the same.

As there were few indications of an immediate advance in the price of oil toward the latter part of the month, the development commenced to fall off and now the number of new wells being drilled is decreasing rapidly. This decrease may be expected to be greater during the next thirty days, as a majority of the wells are nearly completed. The number of wells on which operations will be commenced during the next two months will not exceed thirty.

There are now two hundred and thirty wells being drilled in the entire region, in all stages of progression. About one-fourth of these wells are located on territory which thus far has proved unproductive, but which is now being subjected to a farther test before being abandoned. There are nearly twenty wells being drilled at various points on territory lying at considerable distances from any producing district. Several of these wells are being put down on the territory between Church Run and Tidioute.

At the latter place the development which at first was near the Allegheny River, has been gradually extending westward as the production ran out or the territory became "watered," until now the greater number of new wells are at least one mile from the River. Some five or six wells are being put down on entirely new territory from two to four miles west by south of Tidioute. The territory known as the Economite, on the south side of the River, at the above place, is not "watered" to any considerable extent. In the immediate vicinity of the Economite property several wells have been started, but as yet the value of this territory is not known.

On the Allegheny River, near Scrub Grass district, new territory has been found and several new wells have been started.

On Shaffer Run, near Reno, there is a large amount of development going on, but as but two or three wells which were started last fall have been completed, the extent of the producing territory is not known.

On Church Run there are thirteen new wells being drilled. Most of these wells are located to the east of the bed of the Run, on territory which as yet is but partially known. A number of these wells will be completed within the next thirty days. Within the past month two or three wells situated near the bed of the Run have been tested and they have turned out to be paying wells. The wells situated on the table land east of the Run are still producing largely. The indications are that the wells which are being drilled about one mile east of the Run will produce more than any which have as yet been struck.

On Upper Cherry Run there is a large amount of development going on and the territory embraces over one thousand acres. Between the head waters of Bull Run and the point on Upper Cherry Run where the producing wells are situated there are several thousand acres and a number of new wells are being put down for the purpose of testing this territory.

THE STOCK OF OIL IN THE REGION.

The stock of oil held in the oil region on the 7th inst., in iron tanks, bulk bats, on the hands of producers, brokers and shippers, and in wooden storage tanks, amounted to 680,400 barrels, being a decrease during the month of thirty-four thousand six hundred barrels. This decrease has been caused by shipments to the Eastern markets. At Oil City and Tidioute the oil is being pumped out of the bulk barges and shipped by railroad. At several points on the Creek the stock in iron tanks is being enlarged and for the present the reduction of the stock in these tanks has about ceased.—There is, however, but little doubt but that after the time when there might be a rise in the Alleghany explires, the oil which is now in bulk barges will be pumped out and shipped or tanked.—The operators who purchased oil tanked at Oil City for first water, Pittsburgh delivery, have it is stated refused to take it except on the first water.

THE IRON TANKAGE.

Within the past month but little addition has been made to the capacity of iron tankage in the oil region. At points on the Allegheny River there is in course of construction iron tankage to the capacity of over one hundred and ten thousand barrels, while along Oil Creek there are being constructed six tanks holding from ten to fifteen thousand barrels each. At Shamburg on Upper Cherry Run there are two tanks being erected which will make the total capacity of iron tankage in course of construction in the oil region over two hundred thousand barrels.—Tankage to the capacity of nearly one hundred thousand barrels now in course of construction will be completed on the 1st of January. The capacity of iron tankage which is now in order to receive oil is seven hundred and thirty-six thousand seven hundred and ninety-eight barrels. Of this amount two hundred and forty-five thousand six hundred and ninety-eight barrels are empty. During the past month the amount of empty tankage has been decreased by about thirty thousand barrels. As the price of oil is now low, it is probable that owners of empty tankage will purchase largely, and if it should remain stationary the capacity of empty tankage will be materially lessened during the coming month.

THE PRICE OF OIL.

At present there is little demand for oil except for storage purposes, and the price is steady at $1 70 at points on the Oil Creek Railroad and at $2 25 at Oil City. The demand to fill the large amount of tankage now empty in the oil region and at Cleveland, Corry and at other places will in all probability prevent an immediate decline.

The annexed table shows the amount of oil in iron tankage, the capacity of iron tankage, the number of new wells being drilled, and the average daily production on each farm and at each district on the 8th inst.:

THE SHARES of the Washington Library Company of Philadelphia are being disposed of with unexampled rapidity. The absence of all concealment, the honesty of purpose manifested by those who first inaugurated the enterprise, the fairness with which the proposed final distribution is to be conducted, and the patriotic purpose to which the entire surplus is to be applied, have taken firm hold upon public confidence. Every share of stock will be accompanied by a present at the great distribution of $300,000 worth of presents.

Geo. A. Cooke & Co., bankers, 33 South Third street, Philadelphia, are receivers of all the funds, and their name is an assurance of the integrity and reliability of the Company, which is organized for a good purpose and should not be confounded with the bogus concerns that infest the country. THE GROVER AND BAKER SEWING MACHINE.—One testimonial like the following, should decide in the mind of any lady that the Grover and Baker is the machine for family use. Read this:

I have, for eight years, used in my family and business, (millinery and dress making,) a Grover & Baker Machine, and do unhesitatingly pronounce them the best machine in use. I have thoroughly tested several of the lock-stitch machines, and find them far inferior to the "Grover and Baker."

It is simple in construction, easily run, and makes no noise; the stitch is elastic and will wash without breaking, which I can say of no other machine.

Office of the American Oil Works,
Petroleum Centre, Sept. 16, 1867.

MR. W. S. PAYNE, SIR:—
Having used your self-closing barrel filler for several months past, to the extent of about one hundred barrels per day, we have no hesitancy in saying that it has proved entirely satisfactory; being a great saving of Labor and an entire guard against waste of valuable liquids. Two Hundred Dollars would not buy our machine if we could not get another.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A Library of Universal Information.

THE NEW

AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA:

A Popular Dictionary of General Knowledge.

EDITED BY

GEORGE RIPLEY AND CHARLES A. DANA,

AIDED BY A NUMEROUS SELECT CORPS OF WRITERS, IN ALL BRANCHES OF SCIENCE, ART AND LITERATURE.

In 16 large volumes, 8vo

750 double column pages in each volume.

The leading claims to public consideration which the New American Cyclopædia possesses may be thus briefly stated:

"1. It surpasses all other works in the fullness and ability of the articles relating to the United States.

"2. No other work contains so many reliable biographies of the leading men of this and other nations. In this respect it is far superior even to the more bulky Encyclopædia Britannica.

"3. The best minds in this country have been employed in enriching its pages with the latest data, and the most recent discoveries in every branch of manufactures, mechanics, and general science.

"4. It is a library in itself, where every topic is treated, and where information can be gleaned which will enable a student, if he is so disposed, to consult other authorities, thus affording him an invaluable key to knowledge.

"5. It is neatly printed, with readable type, on good paper, and contains a most copious index.

"6. It is the only work which gives anything approaching correct descriptions of cities and towns of America, or embodies reliable statistics showing the wonderful growth of all sections."

Every one that reads, every one that mingles in society, is constantly meeting with allusions to subjects on which he feels and desires further information. In conversation, in trade, in professional life, on the farm, in the family, practical questions are continually arising, which no man, well read or not, can always satisfactorily answer. If the libraries for reference are at hand, they are consulted, and not only is the curiosity gratified, and stock of knowledge increased, but perhaps information is gained and ideas are suggested that will directly contribute to the business success of the party concerned.

A Cyclopædia is pre-eminently the work for our country and generation. This is the age of steam. No one has time to grope among a hundred different works for every little fact required, without the certainty of finding it at last. With a Cyclopædia, embracing every conceivable subject, and having its topics alphabetically arranged, not a moment is lost. The matter in question is found at once, digested, condensed, stripped of all that is irrelevant and unnecessary, and verified by a comparison of the best authorities. Moreover, while only men of fortune can collect a library complete in all the departments of knowledge, a Cyclopædia worth in itself for purposes of reference at least a thousand volumes, is within the reach of all—the clerk, the merchant, the professional man, the farmer, the mechanic. In a country like ours, where the humblest may be called to respon hie positions requiring intelligence and general information, the value of such a work cannot be over-estimated.

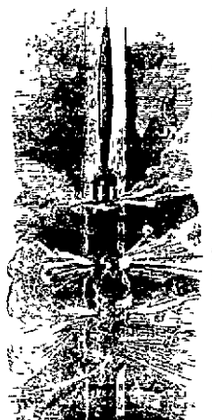
OFFICE AT THE RED PLANING MILL.



Heretofore we have in our circulars alluded to a series of experiments being made with Nitro Glycerine and other explosives. We now announce that we have succeeded, even beyond our most sanguine expectations as regards the safety of handling, also the unprecedented force and power manifested in a skillful combination wherein the size of the Torpedo is less and yet the force many times multiplied and are now prepared to operate on wells with any of the above named explosives either with our improved combination, our old Combination Torpedo, which has a record of utility too well known to need mention here.

8 lb. Nitro Glycerine, equal to 64 lbs. powder.....$150
15 " " " 125 lbs. powder.....
Combination equal to 100 lbs. powder 150
Improved combination, eq to 150 lbs powder..... 200
Double combination, equal to 200 to 1000 lbs powder.....$250 to 500

CAUTION.—The public is cautioned against employing any but the regularly authorized agents of the Company, since their patent, according to the recent decision of the Commissioner of Patents for the United States, covers the use of the Torpedo and all other explosives made right for oil wells, and the use of such materials by other parties is a direct infringement of our rights and we shall hold land or working interests to a strict accountability for such infringements.

PAYNE'S BARREL FILLER!

Important to

OIL REFINERS & DISTILLERS!

W. S. PAYNE'S IMPROVED SELF CLOSING

AUTOMATIC BARREL FILLER

Was patented September 10 1867, and has just been introduced to the oil Region. The advantages gained by the use of the Filler are.

1st SAVING OF TIME.—The Filler is so constructed that at its outset it takes of the full pressure of the Oil or Liquid, as it flows from the tank, the barrel is filled in from one half to one-fourth the time required by the usual process; and the Filler being so closing the workman engaged in filling may be engaged in arranging or bunging the barrels already filled; the filled shut off the flow of liquid, just at the right time, far more accurately than could be done by any workman.

2d. The employment of a Gauge, perfectly simple, but so arranged that the barrel may be filled to any required height, and then at once closed to any oil or liquid, or any external pressure, and that by its own action, being in the nature, a perfect automaton, and rendering the use of a "filled" unnecessary.

3. The barrel never overflows; this item is one often saving in a single day, more than the cost of the Filler.

This Filler is designed to be used for filling Casks, Tanks, Cisterns, Water Tanks of Locomotives, and in general all vessels or receptacles that are to be filled with liquids. Its object is to economize labor. One man with this filler being able to accomplish the work of four to six men operating the old way. An engineer with this instrument can set it in operation and then go about his business oiling his engine, etc., when the tank is filled, the water will be shut off, and the instrument withdrawn from the tank. It may be used about stores, in filling measures, bottles, etc., and effect a great saving of labor.

The filters are made in the most substantial manner of the best brass and by gas and steam fitters, and are warranted to give perfect satisfaction.

W. S. PAYNE, M. S. SIMMONS, E. W. BRADY and W. M. DEWITT, are the exclusive owners of the Patent.

PRICE OF FILLERS, COMPLETE.....$25.00

All orders addressed to Brady, Simmons & Co., Petroleum Center, Pa., will receive prompt attention.
